SYDNEY'S

Executive Outcomes: Sandfire, Australasian, Stonehenge and many more

Tuesday, 18 May 2010

CORPORATE lawyer Derek La Ferla has been appointed as the chairman of copper-gold explorer Sandfire Resources.

La Ferla, a senior corporate partner of Norton Rose in Perth, replaces Miles Kennedy who resigned in December.

Struggling iron ore play Australasian Resources has lost another director with the resignation of Nick Jukes.

Managing director Andrew Caruso resigned earlier this month.

Chemical engineer and former Energy Resources of Australia chief executive officer Bill Cleary has joined the board of Stonehenge Metals as a non-executive director.

Clearly also is chairman of Crossland Uranium and a director of Natasa Mining.

Richard Evans has resigned as CEO of Resource Star, citing personal reasons.

Chairman Andrew Bell will become acting CEO, while non-executive director Cvril Geach will become technical director.

Newly-listed explorer Scandinavian Resources has appointed metallurgist and OM Holdings chief development officer Paul Thomas as a non-executive director.

OMH was a cornerstone investor in Scandinavian, taking a 19.9% stake in its recent initial public offering.

Aussie Q Resources has appointed Sydney Griff as a non-executive director and representative of 8.5% shareholder SLG Australia.

Meanwhile, Ian Riley has been appointed as company secretary and chief financial officer of Bassari Resources.

Former waste treatment company ORT has changed its name to Neo Resources following the signing of a joint venture agreement with Oroya Mining at the Wiagdon Thrust gold project in New South Wales.

The company has appointed geologist Ross Hastings as a non-executive director.
